Former mayor dies

Cruse had 40 years of public service

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

Von Dee Cruse, former mayor of Granite City, died Wednesday at age 74. Cruse was born Oct. 21, 1923, in Granite City, where he attended local educational facilities through high school. He attended Washington University and Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. He heard the call of arms and served in the U.S. Army with the 91st Infantry Division from March 17, 1943, to Nov. 8, 1945, much of that time in the Italian campaign in World War II. Cruse was decorated with the Bronze Star for heroism. He married Lois Hamm Cruse. They have two children and five grandchildren. A lifelong resident had more than 40 years experience in public service, Cruse was one of Granite City's most progressive mayors. He was elected assessor from 1957 to 1965, worked as an administrative assistant for three years in the Madison County Clerk's Office; was appointed assessor in 1972; served two terms on the Granite City Council from 1951 to 1957; and finally served as mayor. Cruse was mayor from 1985 to 1993. When he retired from public service, he was upbeat over the city's future and was proud of how far Granite City had come. Among other things, in April 1993 he cited eight new plants that opened during his time, the (then pending) reopening of American Steel, and $200 million in modernization or expansion of eight other facilities. Eight years before '93, Cruse said, who would have imagined the two auto dealerships on Highway 3, Legacy Golf Course, Wal-Mart, Shoney's, the Wolf Medical Center, the Madison County Transit Center or the many retail and office developments

Night Out draws 250

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

About 250 people showed up for hot dogs, games and face painting at Madison's National Night Out Tuesday. The two-hour event, held at Third Street and Alton Avenue, was sponsored by the Madison Neighborhood Watch. Several groups provided games, prizes and other entertainment for the children, and the police department cooked hot dogs. Alderman Alexis Lux said it went well. The event had finished and crews had just cleaned up the area when thunderstorms started. The Madison event was part of a nationwide effort in more than 9,200 communities sponsored by the National Association of Town Watch. An estimated 31 million people throughout the United States, Canada and military bases worldwide were expected to participate in the 15th annual event. The theme was "Give Neighborhood Crime and

Police draw contract, raises from council

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A three-year contract with police officers was among several police-related items dealt with by the Madison City Council at a special meeting Wednesday. The council unanimously approved the contract, which gives officers a 4 percent raise each year. Other than the salary increases, Mayor John Hamm said there were no major changes in the contract. The council also approved promoting patrol officer Chris Burns to sergeant. Police Chief Steve Skoklo said the vacancy was created by the retirement of Sgt. Kevin Sipes. The council also approved sending Lt. Steve Shelby to an investigation seminar in Springfield at a cost of about $225.

Shelby is replacing Sgt. Neal Mize as the department's detective. Mize is rotating back to uniformed duty. The council also approved an ordinance adopting the Illinois Vehicle Code as the city's vehicle code. That will allow the city to write tickets under its adjudication program for more offenses. The new program — where the city handles all tickets, hearings and fines for non-moving vehicle and city code offenses — is now under way. The first hearing is set for later this month. Under the plan, the city would levy fines based on when a case is decided. Violators will be able to pay a $50 fine before their first hearing, but with that hearing and at each additional hearing, a larger fine would be imposed. When the total fine reaches $250, it imposed. When the total fine reaches $250, it imposed.

Granite City to annex 81 properties Aug. 17

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

The biggest number of annexations in Granite City history is expected to take place Aug. 17 when the city takes in at least 80 properties. Approximately 151 persons petitioned the city for annexation over a one-week period late July, prompted by a flier and letter from Mayor Ron Selph that circulated in unincorporated areas. The flier invited any property owner living within the proposed boundaries of the Mitchell incorporation to petition the city for annexation. Owners had to do so by Aug. 1 to give the city enough time to prepare the petitions before Aug. 18 — a significant date for Mitchell. On Aug. 18, the incorporation group may once again petition the courts to place their incorporation on the ballot for a public vote. The ballot initiative will be based on the 7.28-square-mile map the Madison County Board approved in mid-July.

The incorporators have to wait a full year since the courts dismissed their first petition in August 1997. "Eighty-one are eligible to come in on the 17th," said Economic Development Director Dan Brown. "The rest (will be) offered preannexation agreements." The Granite City Council has moved the regular meeting scheduled for Aug. 18 to the day before to ensure the 81 properties eligible will come into the city before

Focus on his job costing Poshard in race for governor

This suggestion probably comes a month or three too late, but I think Democratic gubernatorial candidate Glenn Poshard should resign his congressional seat.

You could argue that Poshard has an obligation to the people who put him in Congress. But those same people would be tickled pink to see him elected governor.

Rich Miller

While his Republican opponent George Ryan has been campaigning throughout the state almost daily, Congressman Poshard has been stuck in Washington, D.C., doing whatever congressmen do.

Ryan has spent much of his spring and summer meeting with interest groups from all over the political spectrum, schmoozing everyone he comes into contact with. Poshard has been a thousand miles away from the action.

George has kept a close eye on his staff to make sure everything is running smoothly. Poshard hasn't been able to respond personally to the attacks from Ryan camp ing reputation for honesty and integrity.

And perhaps because he spends so much time in Washington matters, Poshard hasn't taken the time to focus on developing his ideas about what he will do if elected. Ryan, on the other hand, has come up with detailed transportation, economic development, and environmental plans. He's even proposed some ideas on state hiring (bring in more minorities, protect gay rights and give veterans fewer automatic hiring preferences).

"Perhaps because he spends so much time in Washington he spends so much time on Washington matters, Poshard hasn't taken the time to focus on developing his ideas about what he will do if elected."

because he's not here, and his staff has yet to figure out the meaning of the term "news cycle."

Polls taken by the Illinois House Democrats show Poshard has amazingly low name recognition in the all-important south suburbs, the site of several hotly contested state legislative races. Poshard is known by about 60 percent of voters there. Ryan's name is recognized by almost everyone. Here it is just a three months before election day and a huge percentage of an important electorate can't even place this guy's name.

His campaign appears to be a mess.

Bill Clinton set the standard during the 1992 campaign for responding to an opponent's attacks. Clinton's "war room" would have a response prepared for the press, complete with well-rehearsed and devastating counter-attack, within minutes. Sometimes the Clinton camp would even "respond" before the other side had a chance to get the initial attack out of their mouths.

Last week it took the Poshard campaign five full days to issue an effective response to an assault by Ryan on Poshard's allegedly anti-environment voting record. Five days. Glenn Poshard is running a Pony Express campaign in a Windows '95 world.

Poshard has been repeatedly tripped up by charges that he sold his congressional votes for a few thousand dollars even though he refuses PAC money and has always had a gleam-

Poem for homes
FIVE HUNDRED AND
MORE JULY 14TH

I looked out from the microphone
And what did I see?
Five hundred and more
Looking up toward me.

So many good souls,
Surely they'll see
The two ways Homes
Should continue to be.

Five hundred and more
And not one lied.
Let's hope their sweet prayer
Won't be denied.

We have two fine homes,
What more can we say?
Let's hope that the board
Will make sure they stay.

Some sat and sighed,
Others they wept.
Then out the back door
The two opposed crept.
They didn't stay long
But at least they showed.
The other thirteen

Great numbers indeed.
To help save the homes
They plant the seed.

Only the board
Can make that seed grow.
What good shall we reap
From this seed we sow?

Now is the time
To act with their hearts
To save these two homes
Is no work of art.

Five hundred and more
Can not be denied.
Oh, we must go
For the five who've died.

It's not up to us,
For we've done our part.
It's up to the board
To make a new start.

Adopted cat proves to be one of a kind

By John McCollough
It all started about six weeks ago.

I was standing in the driveway getting ready to mow the lawn when I heard somebody yell, "Hey Mister, there are baby birds in the street." I turned to see a young boy on a bike in the road and, sure enough, two baby birds that had obviously fallen out of their nest.

I asked the boy to keep an eye on the birds so I could get a bucket out of the garage to pick up the baby birds. As I was picking up the second bird, I heard what seemed like a third bird in the grass. I found the third bird and was getting ready to pick it up when a cat flashed by me and tried to eat the little thing. I shoed the cat away and picked up the last bird.

I should explain that I've never been a cat fancier. Although I generally don't like to categorize people, I've always felt that, when it came to cats, people could be divided into two groups: You either liked them or you didn't. I never did. I guess I've always had the impression cats were generally solitary and skittish animals.

Rather than sink off like most cats would do, this one, a small female brown tabby, just sat there and meowed like crazy as I put the third bird in the bucket.

It seemed pretty clear she wanted what was in the bucket. She looked half-starved and was no doubt saying, "Pardon me, Sir, but I think you have my dinner in that bucket." She followed me around meowing and purring the whole time while I tried to figure out what to do with the birds.

Had I known what we would go through with our now-adopted cat, I would have probably dumped the birds on the ground right then and there and saved myself a lot of time and money.

Instead, I enlisted the help of my neighbor across the street, who is a noted bluebird expert. I figured a bird is a bird, so he'd know what to do. We ended up putting them in an old butter container we made into a nest and put them back into the tree. The cat didn't get the baby birds, but she apparently decided she'd found a home. I think cats choose you and not vice versa.

Her name is Mallory, named after another missing cat in the neighborhood. Since we've had her, she's had an eye infection, a serious respiratory infection, hookworms, some other type of an intestinal parasite, and, oh, by the way, was pregnant.

Although she never appeared to be a bright animal, she's been sick, the old bull has appeared to have gotten even dumber. I've tried to explain to our son that if cats could go to school, most of the cats would ride on the regular bus. Mallory, on the other hand, would be riding the small bus to a special school.

She's a very loving little animal, but has had some trouble grasping what I thought was instinctive with most cats. She's been known to sleep in the litter box and do her business in her bed.

The weather appears not to bother her. She was in the driveway the other day when it started to rain. I was standing in the garage waiting to see what if anything she'd do. When it started raining harder and nothing happened, I went out and picked her up.

I tried my best to explain to her that most cats didn't like to sit out in the rain. The litter box problems have been the most troubling. The frustrating thing is that no one seems to have any good advice; everyone just frowns and says something like, "How odd! We've always had cats

Fitzgerald takes shot at 'weekending' Braun

By Cheryl A. Moody
Staff writer

Peter Fitzgerald for U.S. Senate. That was the message on Tuesday in front of the St. Clair County Courthouse in Belleville.

Fitzgerald, a Republican presently serving in the Illinois State Senate for the last six years, is vying for the U.S. seat against Democratic incumbent Carol Moseley-Braun.

"I don't know how many times Carol Moseley-Braun has been to Belleville during the past few years—but I promise to be in Belleville more often than in Nigeria over the next six years," Fitzgerald said about Braun's trips to Nigeria to meet with the dictator there several years ago. "When she's not weekending in Chicago, she's

"It's a long list ... that makes my record second to none."

Carol Moseley-Braun

weekending in Nigeria," Fitzgerald pointed out other differences between himself and Braun.

"Carol Moseley-Braun favors government solutions leading to higher taxes and increased government involvement," Fitzgerald said of Braun's attitude toward improved education. "The average family in Illinois is already paying nearly 40 percent of its income to taxes."

In a family where both parents are employed, one parent essentially works to pay the government, Fitzgerald said.

"The solution for children and their future is not another government program, but more parental involvement," Fitzgerald said. "Carol Moseley-Braun voted twice against repealing the married couple tax for those making under $50,000 a year."

Fitzgerald said he has the best anti-tax record in Illinois. "We have to work hard to reduce the tax burden on the Illinois citizen," Fitzgerald said.

Besides their differences on taxes, Fitzgerald said that Moseley-Braun also voted against criminals serving at least 85 percent of their sentences, voted for food stamps and welfare benefits for convicted felons and is a supporter of partial-birth abortion. Fitzgerald is pro-life.

"She's an extremist," Fitzgerald said.

During the April primary election, Fitzgerald took 84 of the 102 counties in Illinois and 65-70 percent of the votes in St. Clair County.

If Fitzgerald wins the Nov. 3 general election, it will be the first Republican seat won since 1970 when Chuck Percy was re-elected, Fitzgerald said.

Fitzgerald first became involved with politics when he worked with the former Lt. Governor Dave O'Neal. O'Neal was also the former sheriff in St. Clair County.

Fitzgerald resides in Inverness outside Palatine with his wife, Nina, and son, Jake, 6.

Moseley-Braun touts her accomplishments during brief stay here

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

Bad weather in the Chicago area caused flight cancellations that ruined Sen. Carol Moseley-Braun's plans to visit the Metro East Wednesday.

She was only able to catch a late flight to St. Louis and talk with reporters before heading to her next appointment in New York.

"I've got a little time out from Washington. I've been trying to get around the state as best as I can," she said.

"I represent the mainstream of Illinois," Moseley-Braun said. She believes her record will propel her to a second term in the U.S. Senate, and she is quite pleased with her accomplishments so far.

"I'm a good senator," the Democrat incumbent said. Some of the accomplishments she points to include ethanol tax exemption from 2000 until 2007 in the massive transportation bill Congress passed in the spring. Illinois harvests half the corn used in ethanol production nationwide.

She also points to helping restore the student loan deduction and advancing legislation to "restore crumbling schools." The brown fields legislation, which she supported, is another proud point. The law provides incentives for companies to clean up industrial sites.

"It's a long list ... that makes my record second to none," she said.

"At the top of the list is more support for education," she said, which is also on her agenda for a second term. Teaching control, computers and access to education remain her top priority.

In addition to education, social security, health care reform and "taxpayer justice" are important to her.

"Saving social security is a major issue for me," she said, and offered a few ideas on how to do it.

"First, restrain from spending the budget surplus" that came about from the balanced budget approved this year, Moseley-Braun said. "Next, we could reduce the amount people pay in payroll taxes ... and make it fairer by taxing the cap off."

For example, somebody earning $70,000 a year pays payroll tax on 100 percent of that amount, but for any income higher, the person pays payroll taxes on one-fourth the total.

She wants to make "both income tax and payroll taxes fairer," she said. "I think it's outrageous to give the rich tax breaks and put the burden on the working (people)."

Moseley-Braun would support a flat tax if changes were made to the proposal. "If they add in (taxing) interest and dividends to a flat tax, it wouldn't be so bad," she said.

Much of the debate she's had with her opponent, Republican Peter Fitzgerald, has been over carrying concealed handguns.

Law enforcement is terrified of it. (Concealed carry) is not sensible given the current status," Moseley-Braun said, referring to recent school shootings in Oregon and Kentucky. She crafted legislation that would make carrying a concealed handgun illegal, but said she isn't out to get gun owners.

"Responsible gun owners have nothing to fear from reasonable gun control," she said. Moseley-Braun said she has been attempting to involve Fitzgerald in a series of debates.

"Illinois needs to take a close look at how extreme he is," she said, referring to his views on abortion and gun control. "We need to get him smoked down ... on what he believes in."

County charges man in death of girl, 11

By Sanford J. Schmidt
Staff writer

David R. Martin of St. Louis was charged in Madison County Circuit Court here with first-degree murder and aggravated kidnapping in the killing of 11-year-old Selma Dukanovic of St. Louis. Martin was ordered held without bond in informations filed Thursday in Circuit Court, but he remains in jail in St. Louis pending federal charges that authorities are planning to file there. St. Louis officials said they would file federal charges and discuss with Madison County officials whether to pursue the charges in state or federal court. Martin, 31, is accused of kidnapping the Bosnian refugee from her home in the middle of the night Sunday and taking her to the area around Horseshoe Lake in Granite City, where he shot her in the back of the head, authorities said. Fishermen found the body Sunday afternoon. Officials said they believe the shooting took place at the lake, which is in Madison County. Authorities said Martin has reportedly told them he "accidentally" shot the girl as she tried to run away. He was previously arrested on charges of molesting other young Bosnian girls. Authorities found a suspected murder weapon in a pond near a subdivision in Spanish Lake in north St. Louis County, not far from U.S. 67.

Bosnian parents taking extra precautions to safeguard kids

By Glen Sparks
Staff writer

The violent death of a little girl has a community in anguish.

Bosnian residents in St. Louis are mourning the fatal shooting of Selma Dukanovic, 11, on Aug. 2.

"We all couldn't believe what happened," said Amir Beslija, a south St. Louis man, who emigrated from war-torn Bosnia 3½ years ago and owns Sarajevo Restaurant, 6027 Chippewa St.

"We came here to escape the war. This isn't what we expected to happen."

David Martin has been arrested and charged with killing Selma. He also has allegedly molested other Bosnian children in the Bevo Mill area of south St. Louis.

Beslija said Bosnians are grateful about Martin's capture.

"Now, maybe he will get the death sentence (if he is convicted)," Beslija said. As Selma's mother said, he will be in hell and Selma is in heaven.

Beslija said he wishes St. Louis police would have acted sooner to arrest Martin after residents reported seeing him approach several neighborhood children.

"Maybe they could have questioned him, I don't know," Beslija said. "I don't blame police, though. This is no one's fault except for the person who did it."

"One little, innocent girl is lost forever."

In response to a heightened fear of crime in their neighborhoods, the International Institute of Metropolitan St. Louis is sponsoring a meeting to help Bosnian immigrants learn more about personal safety.

The meeting is scheduled from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 12 at Carpenters Hall, 1401 Hampton Ave.

Anna Crosslin, president of the International Institute, said the meeting will be in both English and Bosnian. About 8,000 Bosnian immigrants live in St. Louis.

Crosslin said during the last two months the institute has been translating brochures on crime prevention from English into Bosnian.

"Things are different here," Crosslin said. "The kind of crime is different here."

Bosnians often are fearful of going to police because of bad experiences with authorities in their former homeland.

"People don't understand, there are limits to what police here are allowed to do," Crosslin said.

City to annex 81 properties

Mitchell can present its petition to the courts.

Granite City did not leave residents much time to initiate annexation procedures, but the timeframe was necessary to beat the date Mitchell incorporated can file again with the courts. Otherwise, nothing could be done with those properties as far as annexations until the question of incorporation was settled at the ballot box.

For the remaining properties that petitioned Granite City, their intentions will be on record with the recorder of deeds, Brown said. Those particular property owners can only file preannexation agreements because their property is not contiguous (does not physically touch Granite City).

"(We'll) file preannexation agreements with the stipulation under which when they become contiguous, they'll come into Granite City," he said.

The petitions came mainly from the area bounded by Highway 203 on the west, Belleville Area College on the north, Pontoon beach on the east and Granite City itself on the south, Brown said.

Granite City will be annexing most of that area except for properties that are not contiguous or did not petition for annexation.

The rescheduled city council meeting starts at 7 p.m. Aug. 17 in Granite City Hall.

Realize where your real beauty is

The great artist Auguste Renoir was almost paralyzed by arthritis. When asked why he continued to paint when he was in such agony, Renoir replied, "The beauty remains, the pain passes."

Your true beauty will not pass with pain or sorrow. It will remain, as long as you have love in your heart, thankfulness on your lips, encouragement for others and hope for the future. You must take special care of your inner-self, for beauty is more, much more than skin deep. It radiates from your unique and wonderful personality.

It's important to take care of yourself so you feel your absolute best. No matter your lot, your age or circumstance, the beauty of your character, too, will remain.

Ruth Revot, an 84-year-old Woodmont, Conn., resident wrote, "You have to count on living every day in a way that you believe will make you feel good about yourself, so that if it were over tomorrow, you'd be satisfied. I don't think of all the misery but of all the beauty that still remains."

A New You

Your inner beauty was created by the same God that made Earth. His divine hand brought forth the crystals pure waters, the petals of the flowers and breathtaking sunsets. Open your eyes to God's beauty and to your own.

You are made beautiful by the way you think, act and how you treat your fellow human beings. Your kindest impulse, most generous gestures and loving words, when put into practice, will make you radiant. "Man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart." Samuel 16:7

God judges, not on your outward appearance but deep within a caring heart, and so does any person who judges wisely. "What you have in your heart comes to the surface," says Angela Cirno Zimmer of Hamden, Conn. "I do not judge a person on their looks but on how they act and react to certain situations," she says. Comfort those in need. Helping others gives you better emotional and physical health.

"I am a volunteer for the Cancer Unit at Saint Raphael's Hospital," says Gloria Peach of North Haven, Conn. "I have met so many wonderful people and have learned so much wisdom from them," she says. "The patients are appreciative, tolerant and lovely because their circumstances have made them aware of the true beauty that comes from within."

To obtain this inner beauty, talk with God, cherish life's little moments, take a stroll in the park, sip tea with a friend, or laugh with the children. Slow down. These occasions catch the essence of life and that quality time is what makes life worth living.

Clothe yourself in peace and serenity. Be aware of the small pleasures of life and the satisfaction of goals achieved. No need to compare yourself with others; Renoir's masterpieces are incomparable and so are you.

What makes a person beautiful, regardless of his or her size, shape or color is that person's attitude and spirit. Inner-beauty knows no boundaries. Your true beauty, like Renoir's painting, is timeless and becomes more valuable with age. Let sorrows and pain be forgotten. The greatest masterpiece on Earth is the beauty of your soul. This beauty remains.

Work-Saving Tips by the experts at

FRANK'S NURSERY & CRAFTS

Where Beautiful Things Begin

Work-saving tips are something everyone can use, whether you're a gardener or not. After all, who doesn't enjoy a few extra leisure moments now and then?

Put grass only where it's needed. If you don't like to spend time maintaining a lawn, there's no need to have any more of it than necessary. For example, ground cover could be used along the narrow side of the house. It doesn't require mowing and will weeds, applying weed controls and getting everything back to normal than you would by mowing it a little more often.

Avoid sharp-angled, small patches of lawn and other tough-to-mow areas. Nobody likes constantly stopping and maneuvering the mower, and the less of it you have to do, the quicker you'll be relaxing in your favorite chair.

Surround tree bases with gravel or other mulch. This makes it easier to mow, is better for your trees, and cuts down on weeding.

Don't plant large, lush plants next to the house. They can be tough to trim, and get in the way when you're washing the windows or propping up a ladder. Choose smaller varieties instead.

Call it trimming, pruning, cutting or whatever you wish, but there will be less of it to do if you make the right choice of plants. You should opt for compact or slow-growing varieties to reduce the maintenance chores.

Keep the trimmers and pruners sharp. Pull blades are no fun to work with. A sharp blade produces a nice, clean, fast cut.

Buy only the best quality tools. They make jobs go faster, are easier, and you won't have to drop everything and head out to replace a shovel that bends in the middle of a job.

Keep the tools in good condition and store them in a safe, easy-to-get-at place. One reason many people don't like working in the yard is that they can never find the right tool when needed. Where's the hand trowel? Oh, well, a big spoon will have to suffice. Of course the trowel will be there in all its glory when you're looking for the pliers. What's the solution? One is a pegboard and hook system. It'll work just as well in the garage as it does in the basement workshop.

Don't cut the lawn too short. Many people do just that, erroneously believing it will "go longer" before needing mowing. Here's the scoop on that subject. Short grass invites weed growth, and you'll end up spending more time pulling weeds, applying weed controls and getting everything back to normal than you would by mowing it a little more often.

Use plastic edging along flower beds, above-ground swimming pools, etc. This keeps everything in a neat, orderly fashion. Plastic edging is easy to install, and it will save you a lot of work in the long run. Here's a hint: When you first open the edging, lay it flat in the sun for about an hour. It will then be much easier to bend and shape to virtually any contour.

Plant only plants and grasses suitable for this area. If you don't, you could end up spending a ton of time trying to maintain something that wasn't meant to grow here in the first place. Of course Frank's plant buyers have already figured that out, so you don't have to worry.

We hope these tips will ease your workload a little. And who knows? If gardening isn't your favorite pastime, it might just get to be a little more fun!

For thousands of years, building codes have protected the earliest code of Hammurabi, the Babylonian law code in 2200 B.C. Penalties if a constructed in Hammurabi's law does not make a firm, and the causing the death of the owner, the builder, or the contractor.

Modern building codes contain a design to protect the potential hazard of building standards, construction costs.

Today, modern building codes address structural safety as well as security and conservation.

Glen Hollis

and Zoning administrator Glen Hollis. "Our job is to make sure that homes, businesses and other structures are safe, sound to live, work and play. We inspect construction projects at several stages to ensure that happens."

For codes to be effective, building officials, property owners and the construction industry — developers, builders, architects, engineers and urban planners — must work together. Granite City's Building and Zoning Department provides a wide range of services from building plan review to inspection during all stages of construction, Hollis said.

"Building codes provide local government with a way to guard the public's personal safety, much like traffic laws regulate driving. Construction codes also ensure the economic health of our community. They reduce the potential spread of fire and disease. They tell consumers that homes and commercial buildings in our community are built as safe as possible," Hollis said.

ordinances set minimum safety standards for all aspects of building construction — structural, fire, and plumbing, electrical and mechanical systems. Inspections at various stages verify that the structure complies with the established codes and standards. "Before you can move into a new home, office or factory, an average of 10 inspections has been conducted," Hollis said.

For do-it-yourselfers, Hollis recommends calling the building and zoning department at 451-4040 before beginning any building project for information about what type of permits and inspections may be required. For major construction, fees are generally less than 1 percent of the overall cost of the building project.

"That's a small price to pay for safety," Hollis said. "Building codes provide safeguards. Although no code can eliminate all risks, our codes and inspection process can reduce them to an acceptable level."

2 men arrested for stealing purses from elderly women

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

Two men face felony charges for allegedly grabbing purses from four area elderly women.

Scott E. Sessions, 24, of the 800 block of Edlawn in Wood River, and Jason D. Wanick, 26, of the 500 block of S. Jefferson in Collinsville, were arrested and charged with robbing four women — two from Granite City, one from an unincorporated part of the county and one from Wood River.

Police Chief David Ruebhausen and Maj. Kip Pomeroy gave plenty of praise to Granite City and Wood River detectives, who cooperated to put the case together.

The Granite City incidents happened July 31 and Aug. 4. In the first, Wanick and Sessions are charged for allegedly strongarming a purse from a woman over age 80.

In the Aug. 4 incident, the victim was returning to her home on Cleveland from shopping, and after pulling her car to the garage, noticed a man standing by the driver's side door, according to police reports.

Wanick allegedly asked the victim if she knew the way to Nameoki Road; the victim said yes. The suspect then reached in the car and took the woman's purse and ran off towards Delmar.

A neighbor later told police he had seen a car drive up to the victim's house and saw whom he believes was the suspect get out and walk to the garage.

Both suspects remain in custody in Madison County Jail, with bond for Sessions set at $75,000 for robbery and bond for Wanick at

Jason Wanick

Scott Sessions

$50,000 for theft from a person. If convicted, Sessions faces at least four to 10 years, and Wanick faces at least two to five years.

Because of the age of the victims, the charges levied were greater than normal, Pomeroy said.

Charges are expected soon from the Madison County Sheriff's Department, which is handling the case in unincorporated county and from Wood River Police for the incident in that city.

Can we have a heart to heart?

Come to Women's Heart Check Day and find out how healthy your heart really is.

Heart disease, surprisingly, is one of the leading causes of death among women. In fact, every two minutes one woman dies of heart disease.

Fortunately, there is something you can do to guard yourself against heart disease — prevention through early detection. That's why, as a special community service, Memorial will hold a Women's Heart Check Day.

For just $35, you will receive a complete heart screening to help you identify your coronary risk factors.

Date, Time, Place:
Saturday, August 22, 1998

Council OKs survey for buried tanks

City may buy land next to city hall

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

As part of a plan to expand its city hall complex, the Madison City Council approved a contract with an environmental firm to check on buried gas tanks on adjoining property. At a special meeting Wednesday, the council approved a $1,500 contract with Abatement Management Inc. to survey a former gas station next to the city hall, located at 615 Madison Ave.

After making a survey of the area, the company would then submit a bid for the removal of any tanks.

The city is considering buying the property from Andy Economy, but Mayor John Hamm wants to know what the city would need to remove the tanks.

"We have to see what the price of removing those tanks will be," Hamm said.

He added that the location could be used for a new fire station or recreation. He said the present fire station in the 1500 block of Third Street was in "pretty bad shape."

Hamm said the city needs more room to store equipment and vehicles. The property next to city hall is one of several the city is eyeing for the fire station. Part of the land would also

John Hamm be used for basketball or tennis courts. Because of the proximity of the police station, he said activity at the facility could be easily monitored. Hamm said the total project is probably at least two years away.

Also at the special meeting, Hamm said they would not be discussing any matters under building and lands. Most of the meeting's agenda involved the purchase and annexation of property, but Hamm declined to discuss what property they are talking about.

DAV touts free transportation

Area veterans no longer need to worry about transportation to and from St. Louis' Department of Veterans Affairs Medical Center for treatment.

That VA medical facility recently received two vans from the Disabled American Veterans, a non-profit organization with more than 1 million members.

The vans will be driven by a corps of local volunteers organized by the DAV and its Auxiliary.

The donation was made possible through a cooperative effort of the DAV's national organization, the DAV Department of Missouri and the DAV St. Louis Chapter No. 1. The van donation is part of the nationwide DAV Transportation Network.

Officials noted that the services initially will be provided to veterans in eastern Illinois and in the St. Louis metropolitan area. Plans include expanding that service as additional volunteer drivers sign up.

Veterans needing transportation assistance and who live within eastern Illinois should call Wilcox at (314) 289-6443.

Group installs new officers

The Young at Heart Senior citizens of Holy Family Catholic Church held its monthly meeting July 20 in the church community center.

The meeting was called to order by the Retiring President Irma Manning, who led the group in prayer. The group then said "The Pledge of Allegiance."

The Rev. William Fisherkeller installed the new officers for 1998-1999. They are Cleola Siebert, president; Ruth McClew, vice president; Cleo Schenke, recording secretary; and Goldie Rozycki, treasurer. Absent was Pauline Hanson, corresponding secretary.

Recording Secretary Cleola Siebert read minutes of the June meeting. Cecelia Mance then gave the treasurer's report. Friendship Chairperson Mary Rita Ahlers sent a sympathy card to Zita Bequette for the loss of Bequette's mother. She also sent a get-well card to Helen Bertacchi, an anniversary card to Art and Vi Lindner for their 64th wedding anniversary and a card to the Danco family. Membership Chairperson Connie McGee reported 63 members in attendance.

Birthdays celebrated in July were Eric Mooshegan, Rosemary Breyer, Sarah Downs, Marie Stanek and Nellie Forrest.

Brian Unfried, Holy Family grade school recipient of a scholarship to Marquette high school, thanked the Young at Heart for giving him the scholarship. He said he would study hard and make them proud of him.

A trip is scheduled on Sept. 20 to southern Illinois' different points of interest, including Garden of Gods, Shrine of Good Shepherd and San Damiano, which overlooks the Ohio River. The price is $35.00. The group will leave the church parking lot at 7 p.m. Cut-off date for reservation and payment is Sept. 7. A two-day trip is scheduled for Nov. 30 and Dec. 1 to PARADISE Peoria. The $60 price includes transportation, hotel, buffet dinner, continental breakfast, lunch cruise and Festival of Lights.

On the way home, the group will visit the Market Place and Gingerbread Factory. Deadline for reservation and payment is Oct. 26.

Another roadside attraction

Healthy options for long-distance eating

"Burgers and fries or burritos?" your loved ones ask as you exit the turnpike for a quick lunch before continuing your 300-mile journey. But heavy, greasy food is the last thing you want sitting in your stomach as you ride in the car for the next five hours. No need to worry — there are some healthy options to choose from when you're limited to car-ride cuisine.

Fast food restaurants are beginning to offer some lighter, healthier fare, and packing some nutritious foods from home can help chase away your rest-stop food blues altogether. Not only will you feel better once you arrive at your destination, the American Institute for Cancer Research says that choosing more low-calorie, plant-based foods can help reduce your risk of cancer and other serious diseases.

There's little doubt that, while traveling, fast food restaurants offer the quickest, most convenient meals for your money. But that doesn't mean you have to order the extra large versions of everything with cheese. For a low-fat breakfast on the road, order a fat-free muffin or pancakes instead of high-fat bacon, egg and cheese sandwiches. Fresh tossed salads are available at most drive-thrus — just remember to request low-fat dressing. Another good choice is a grilled chicken sandwich, minus the mayonnaise. If you want to add more flavor to your sandwich without adding excess fat, ask for a packet of honey mustard or barbecue sauce, and add lots of lettuce, tomatoes and other veggies if they're available. As you ponder your snack selection at the rest-stop vending machine, ignore the candy bars and corn chips and choose pretzels, air-popped popcorn or baked potato chips.

If you decide to bring food from home, sandwiches are an easy choice. Use whole grain bread for added nutrition, lean meat (if any) such as turkey breast, and a variety of fresh vegetables like tomatoes, green peppers, onions or chopped carrots. For something different, try a bean spread sandwich filling, or wrap your sandwich fillings in tortillas instead of traditional sandwich bread. Keep them cold with frozen juice boxes.

Fresh fruit, such as peaches, plums and grapes, also travel well. Just remember to bring extra napkins in case some fruits are especially juicy!

Low-fat crackers and dried fruits are some other healthful alternatives, as well as a variety of cold cereals, like sweetened squares, which can make a good cookie substitute. Many road trip travelers make the mistake of waiting until they're overcome with hunger before stopping to eat. This often leads to eating too much, too quickly and paying little attention to the nutritional content of the food you choose. Instead, pack some healthful snacks to munch on in the car until you're ready to stop for a bigger meal. These snacks not only help curb your hunger, they also give you the opportunity to fit in the recommended five daily servings of fruits and vegetables.

Eagles Auxiliary meets

Granite City Eagles Auxiliary 1126 recently met. President Nina Jackson opened the meeting with 35 members in attendance. She welcomed Martha Howlett, Alton Auxiliary 254 and state membership chairman, to the meeting.

Roll of officers was taken. Mary Church, outside guard, was absent. Her chair was propped by Hilda Melton. Mildred Boyd, junior past president, was pro-tem by Martha Howlett, Alton 254.

The secretary read one new application for membership. Betty McGee re-enrolled. Two new applications were read for membership.

Correspondence from Ken Cross, grand aerie membership chairman, was read regarding the membership campaign with a payback offer to all auxiliaries. The goal of the state president is $1,700 and aerie is 6,000 new and re-enrolled members for the 1998-99 year.

Granite City hosted the district meeting July 19. Voting for three trustees preceded the installation of officers for the year. All other officers were unopposed.

A certificate was given to the auxiliary from the state project chairman for participation in collecting pull tabs from aluminum cans to sponsor children to the Burn Camp in Illinois.

Vincine Zerlan, publicity chairman for 1997-98, donated her $10 cash prize — earned at the state convention for the auxiliary publicity entry that took second place in competition to the disaster fund.

Theresa McWhinnie, state auxiliary president, sent Angie Buehler a certificate for Buehler being named State Grandmother of the Year.

Evaleen Ederle gave the bingo report and announced a bingo meeting.

Plans to put up tile over the dessert table in the dining room were made. The auxiliary will be responsible for the cost, and the aerie will install it.

More details for the Auxiliary-Aerie Eagles Festival on Aug. 1 were discussed. More booths and activities were added.

Angie Buehler and her committee hosted the social hour and refreshments.

Others in attendance were Jane Moore, Tiny Turcott, Ann Pates, Darlene Winters, Tracy Krug, Helen Paschedag, Sharon Case, Joan Mezo, Betty Taylor, Ellen Wallace, Florence Haghauser, Ruth Benson, Dee Taft, Chris Kinser, Barbara (Ramsey) Land, Sharon Hogan, La Verne Malzynski, Lorraine Parkinson, Helen Lipchik, Edna Cease, Melba Fricker, Katie Kostoff, Vincine Zerlan, Flo Stokes and Martha Simpson.

Horoscope

SUNDAY, AUG. 9
The empathetic moon is under the influence of Pisces, and that means people will find it hard to stick to a sched ule today. Plans may not be realized or completed with Mercury traveling backward all week. Try not to become impatient, and just enjoy the feelings of goodwill that accompany the moon's transit through Pisces.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). A confession of love reaches your ears. You have enough information to make major decisions, so what are you waiting for? A reward system only helps you attain goals if you honor it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Extend invitations, and get feelings out in the open. Take a more active interest in work instead of just doing what the boss says! You are onto a hot idea — take necessary precautions such as copyrights or patents.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). You are pulled out of roman tic limbo and into a love affair with an exciting mate. Expect to get the financial advances you have worked so hard to earn. Continue to fine-tune your image.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Lucky situations are hard to miss. Look for a Leo or Gemini to team up with. Career and health flourish with attention to detail. Once you focus, you have success. Consider open ing your own business.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Be socially responsible; call peo ple back. Suddenly, a proposal is accepted. Act quickly in financial or emotional mat ters. Move closer to a new love. The chaos in your per sonal life forces you to make needed changes.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Aug. 9). You can enjoy a fairly relaxed and stable routine while planning for major moves you may desire to make. Extra money could come your way in late Novem ber or early December. A love problem is resolved by April. A gracious lover could be a Capricorn or Pisces. Your lucky numbers are 6, 12, 20 and 53.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). New love requires a bit of work. Communication between old lovers improves. Luck comes through schooling, reading or Internet research. A Pisces is a viable business asset.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). Your absorption in a problem keeps you from dealing with a pressing marital or family matter. Married couples find that problems bring them closer together. Side-step time can mitmutes.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Right now, reading isn't enough! You expand your body of knowledge only by doing. Start projects slowly, taking tasks step by step. A turning point in romance occurs when you least expect it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). You play the builder, but someone else is playing the wrecker. Get clear about everyone's intentions so as not to do futile work. You are an energizing ingredient in all situations and relationships.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). You could out-distance your competitors. Express your opinion in the morning, but the afternoon calls for more reserve. Storing up your ener gy allows you to do some cre ative work tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). You don't want to move from project to project, but this is what someone else expects. Do it your way by taking it from start to finish in one fell swoop. In love, stop being an observer, and participate.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). A co-worker makes a romantic offer that seems incredible. Imaginary ills are still symp toms of pain, so do very sym pathetic with your mood. Time alone, but spending time in the world will be unavoidable.

BAC offering T'ai Chi class

T'ai Chi, an ancient non-violent form of martial art, will be the subject of a physical fitness class offered this fall by Belleville Area College in Highland.

This class will be offered from 6:30 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays Sept. 2 through Dec. 16 at Highland Junior High School. The class is worth one credit hour.

It will be taught by Roberta Anderson of Highland, who has taught other physical education classes for BAC in the past.

T'ai Chi is known for, and best recognized for, its slow and graceful movements. Skills involved include proper body alignment, muscle relaxation, deep abdominal breathing and mental relaxation.

Many people credit T'ai Chi with improving muscle tone, reducing stress, improving circulation and reducing blood pressure.

No prior experience with T'ai Chi or other martial arts is necessary to join this class.

For more information, call James Burgess, BAC-Highland Extension Center coordinator, at 654-2106. To register, call BAC at 1-800-BAC-5131, extension 455 or 383.

Brush with Big Mac

Local family nearly on receiving end of McGwire blast

As the excitement increases with the possibility of someone breaking the major league home run record of 61 set in 1961 by Roger Maris, I thought it wise to pass along the events of May 22, when home run mania nearly hit home — literally — for a Millstadt family.

What began as a special evening — since it was "Beanie Baby Night" at the Cardinals-San Francisco game at Busch Stadium — became something more for Larry and Shelly Smith and their sons, Jordan, 7, and Jarrett, 5.

"When we entered the stadium, I told Shelly the Cardinals were taking batting practice, and we might get a chance to see (Mark) McGwire, Larry Smith explained the other night while he and I watched American Legion postseason baseball action in Fairview Heights.

"We had terrace reserved seats right above Big Mac Land in left field, and just as we entered the walkway, I realized it was indeed McGwire batting," added Smith.

Yet, with McGwire, the Cardinals' home run slugger at bat, Smith said he was not prepared for what followed — especially since his family stood more than 500 feet from home plate.

"I saw him swing and heard the crack of the bat and told Shelly 'That thing looks like it's coming right at us,'" Smith said. "You think there's no way, but then you realize how fast the ball is traveling."

That's when Smith's quick actions — or reactions — may have prevented injury.

"My heart was pounding for the safety of our kids," said 43-year-old Smith, who noted that his wife and Jarrett were behind him as he entered the walkway.

"I pulled Jordan toward me and pushed Jarrett to the side," said Smith while recalling how the ball struck the concrete just above Jarrett's head.

"After the ball hit the wall, it rebounded down into Big Mac Land, where a guy standing in the first row was wearing a glove and caught. Jarrett said he should have used his hat to catch the ball."

Despite having to avoid what might have been an unusual souvenir, the Smiths had other memories in addition to the beanie babies as a result of attending that game.

"McGwire also hit a home run into Big Mac Land in the game that night, and we all got free Big Macs (McDonald's sandwiches) with our ticket stubs," said Smith, who says he has tried to explain to his sons the significance of seeing McGwire play.

While the ages of the boys may negate the absorption of baseball history, their widening eyes as the dad relayed the events of a night at the ballpark were proof enough that they will never forget McGwire.

Extra Innings

A recent column made note of Belleville Area College baseball coach Neil Flala and his passing "2,000 hits." Oops! The number actually is 2,500 and was passed this summer by Neil, who shows no signs of slowing down at age 41.

Putting on their Game Faces

Carolyn Distler and Damon Brooks are co-founders of Game Face Sports International, Inc., a sporting goods apparel company in O'Fallon. Their business, based on a design by major league baseball player Trinidad Hubbard and now backed by Brian Jordan and Danny Cox, has grown tremendously since its debut in January 1996.

Carolyn Distler and Damon Brooks want you to put your Game Face on. Distler and Brooks are president and vice president, respectively, and co-founders of Game Face Sports International, Inc. The sporting goods apparel company, located at 1560 Frontage Road in O'Fallon, has experienced steady growth since its debut in January 1996 and is preparing to expand its operations to the national level.

"People want things that are comfortable and fashionable," Brooks said. "The Game Face logo isn't just for athletes, it's something anyone can relate to. When you think of putting on your game face, you think of focus, determination and getting serious."

The business, which started in 1996 in the basement of Distler's silk-screen printing shop in Belleville, produces items such as caps, T-shirts, golf shirts and sweatshirts for professional teams and other organizations.

Distler, an East St. Louis native and a lifelong Metro East resident, started the

Tri-City draws crowd for Classic

Fans come out to see Schrader compete on dirt

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

The Midwest's best Dirt Late Model drivers were assembled Wednesday in the mud of Tri-City Speedway for the NASCAR Busch All-Stars series' eighth annual Hicks Oil/Quaker

AUTO RACING
State Classic 50.

The competitors were here to take their shot at Winston Cup driver and local racing hero Kenny Schrader.

When the mud and dust had settled, it was Sonny Findling who came away the winner. Despite his seventh-place finish, Schrader's support from the fans was unrelenting.

"Ken Schrader is the man on the pole," the announcer shouted to start the first qualifying heat. The crowd erupted in applause.

He held the lead, and by the fourth lap Schrader was tearing it open, rocketing away from the pack. The caution flag came out, and after the restart Schrader took turn two wide. Steve Kosiski ran up, and the two drivers began a tug-of-war that Kosiski eventually won, taking first in the heat. Schrader was passed by Richard Foster and qualified for the feature in third.

Schrader started the feature in row nine, and was in 17th place after the first lap. He had to pit during the caution after lap 10, and went to the back of the pack. After another caution on lap 18, Kenny was 19th.

The race went more than 25 laps without incident, and Schrader steadily passed drivers. A caution on lap 46 more or less decided Schrader's finish of seventh place.

Though he didn't win the race, Schrader had plenty of support in the stands and in the pit area, where the line to get his autograph after the race snaked back 100 yards.

"He's a regular guy, real humble,"

But Findling earns first win in Classic

Special to the Journal

Sonny Findling has been racing at Tri-City Speedway off and on for the last 15 years, but Wednesday he scored a career first — a feature win in the NASCAR Busch All-Star Series Hicks Oil/Quaker State Classic 50. "I joined the Busch series in 1990 and can honestly say that I've finished in every position in this race," Findling said. "The oval was great

ALL-JOURNAL CLASS A PREP SOFTBALL TEAM

Bohnenstiehl was best player in Class A for third straight year

Lebanon pitcher finished with 1,091 career strikeouts

By Scott Marion
Staff writer

For the third year in a row, Lebanon pitcher Nicole Bohnenstiehl is the Class A Softball Player of the Year for the Journal Newspapers of Southern Illinois.

After leading the Greyhounds to a second-place finish in the IHSA Class A state tournament in 1997, Bohnenstiehl had an outstanding senior season in '98. She was 20-5 with a 0.51 ERA. In 178 innings, she struck out 345 batters while allowing only 26 walks and 64 hits.

In four years at Lebanon, she was 67-22 with 1,091 strikeouts and a 1.17 ERA.

Bohnenstiehl was equally tough at the plate, leading her team in batting average (.406), runs batted in (29), home runs (three), doubles (10), hits (37) and runs scored (25). Her high school career ended June 5 with a 2-0, 14-inning loss to Carrollton in the quarterfinals of the IHSA Class A state tournament.

"We could have won it, but I guess it wasn't meant to be," Bohnenstiehl said. "But I'm happy we went to state three years in a row."

"We didn't have the same mentality this year as we did my junior year. Some players didn't have the killer instinct, but it's hard to get that when you're a freshman. That's not to take anything away from our freshmen because they did really well."

"My hitting during the school season really improved from last year. I was seeing the ball a lot better than I ever had. As a team, we gelled well; it's just that our talents and mentality were different. For summer ball, I'm throwing better because I'm lifting weights for the first time. That's really made a difference."

Bohnenstiehl recently returned from a two-week southern trip for school and softball. She visited the University of Southern Mississippi, which she will attend and play softball for beginning this fall. Then she went to visit relatives in Atlanta before heading to Jupiter, Fla., for the NSA national tournament. Her team, the St. Charles (Mo.) Patriots, led for ninth place among 137 teams.

"I've also working out, running and working for my dad and working my other job, so I've been pretty busy," Bohnenstiehl said.

Bohnenstiehl is following the summer conditioning program set to her by Southern Mississippi coach Lu Harris, former coach at Nichols State University and the Orlando (Fla.) Wahos professional team.

"I've been running, lifting, stretching and all that wonderful stuff," Bohnenstiehl said, grinning. "It was a lot easier to keep up with before I went on my trip. I don't like to get up early in the summer, but I come home and run late at night."

Lebanon senior Nicole Bohnenstiehl was 20-5 with an 0.51 ERA and she hit .406 this spring.

ALL-JOURNAL SOFTBALL TEAM (CLASS A)

Columbia trio earns spots on first team

Farmer, Schaefer, Schmidt represent Cahokia Conference champs

Joining Lebanon's Nicole Bohnenstiehl on the Journal Newspapers of Southern Illinois' All-Journal first team for girls softball (compiled by Karen Tartanlian, Scott Marion and Brian Bretsch) are:

First team

Pitchers

Dawn Farmer, Columbia: The senior simply was sensational for the Lady Eagles last spring, posting an 18-3 record and a 0.60 earned run average.

Farmer, who played short stop when she wasn't pitching, also batted better than .300. Her production helped Columbia win a school-record 25 games and capture the Cahokia Conference crown.

"She's got it all," said former Columbia softball coach Darrell Burd, who will be replaced next spring by assistant Jim Gee. "I'm talking about: she's got the attitude, she's got the desire to win, she's got the work ethic, and she's got two of the most important things, I feel, and that's her personality. She'll do what she can for the team. She's just a very pleasant girl to work with."

"And she is a top-notch student. That's another thing that's going to be in her favor. I can't say enough about Dawn Farmer."

Farmer shared team Most Valuable Player honors with battery mate Pam Schaefer.

Farmer will continue her softball career at SIU-Edwardsville this fall.

Katie DeBons, Gibault: She helped lead the Hawks to a solid 19-9 ledger while winning the team's Most Valuable Player award.

DeBons, a three-year varsity player for Gibault, posted an 18-6 pitching record.

"Katie's one of the most dedicated softball players we've ever had," said Hawks assistant John Holtschlag. "She quit basketball to play softball and the effort really paid off for her. She had a lot of fun playing the game. That's one of the reasons she was so successful this year."

DeBons will attend and play softball at Fontbonne College this fall.

Catcher

Pam Schaefer, Columbia: She was another critical cog in Columbia's successful campaign, registering a .434 batting average while effectively handling the Lady Eagles' tough pitching staff.

Schaefer, a first-team all-Cahokia Conference pick, notched the game-winning hit in the Monroe County Tournament championship game as well. "She's an excellent leadoff batter," Burd said. "And she could be a No. 1 or No. 2 batter. She puts the bat on the ball, and she swings well. She's just a steady catcher back there. You can just look in her eyes and know all she wants to do is give it that extra 110 percent and is going to do that everyday. She's another leader."

Schaefer, a senior, is playing softball at Webster University this fall.

Infielders

Ashley Schmidt, Columbia: She had an all-around successful sophomore campaign, leading the Lady Eagles with a .446 average.

A first-team all-conference pick, Schmidt also fashioned a strong 6-2 pitching ledger.

"I look for her to be one of the leading pitchers in the area next year," Burd said. "She's another hard-nosed ball player. Ashley is very dependable."

Jessica Reinacher, Lebanon:

A junior third baseman, Reinacher batted .333 with 18 RBI, both second on the team.

"She hit in the cleanup position and she stayed consistent all year," said Greyhounds coach Hank Feldt. "When she's on, she can put the ball in orbit. Defensively, she has real good hands."

Gina Perschbacher, Red Bud: The sophomore first baseman batted .403 for the 13-10 Musketeers this past spring.

Perschbacher gained valuable experience for a strong Althoff squad. Perschbacher made around 10 starts as a pitcher in addition to playing first base.

"Being a sophomore, Gina developed into a strong hitter," said Musketeers coach Sandy Griffin of her No. 4 hitter. "We were able to move her around between first base and pitching. And she was a good defensive player at either position."

Kay Cryder, Weslin: The senior shortstop was the Warriors' leading hitter, but her value to a young team went well beyond her offensive skills.

"She's a tremendous athlete," Weslin assistant coach Jenny Hein said of Cryder, who plans to try out for the SIU-Carbondale softball team as a walk-on. "Her fielding is outstanding and her hitting was outstanding this year."

"She's a great person. She'll spend an hour after practice working on her fielding. The majority of our team was underclassmen and (junior pitcher) Darci Loudon was a great asset."

Darrell Burd, Columbia softball coach, on catcher Pam Schaefer more of a leader, but Kay kind of set the tone for what the team should do. She put in so much effort that everybody wanted to play well around her."

Genin Onofrey, Metro-East Lutheran: The senior third baseman batted clean-up for the Lady Knights this season and produced a .478 batting mark, one home run and 28 RBI.

Onofrey did solid work on the hot corner considering she had been a catcher throughout her high school career.

"The coach (Jon Giordano) said I came through when we had two outs," Onofrey said. "I was the one who would start a rally we were down."

"Playing (third base) for the first time in a long time, I was decent. He just stuck me out there and I had to start from scratch."

Outfielders

Michelle Green, Gibault: The junior batted around .300 and played a steady centerfield for the Hawks.

Green also saw limited pitching duty.

"The nice part about having her in centerfield is that you knew about any softball hit to her, she was going to get to it and catch it," Holtschlag said. "She has a nice throwing arm and loves to play the game."

Schoenleber plans to play softball at Concordia University in Nebraska.

She also loves to play softball.

Janelle Schoenleber, Metro East Lutheran: The senior outfielder was a four-year varsity starter. She was a steady player at the plate and in the field. Her outstanding play helped her garner first-team all-overland Trail Conference honors.

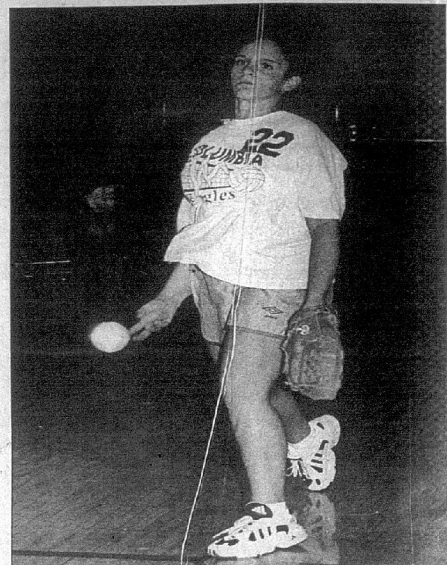

"I did a little bit of bunting. I was a contact hitter and drove in runs," Schoenleber said. "I did a pretty good job in the field."

After pitching most of Lebanon's games this season, Bohnenstiehl has continued to pile up innings for the Patriots.

"I pitched in six of our eight games (at nationals)," she said. "One of our pitchers swung the bat and hit her thumb, so she can't throw as much. (Gibault graduate) Katie DeBons threw for us, too. She started two games where I came in to relieve and I started four other games. It doesn't matter if I start or relieve as long as we win."

"Summer ball helps a lot because you're facing all these new people. You learn what hitters can hit and what they can't. You also learn a lot just by watching batters."

Schoenleber plans to play softball at Concordia University in Nebraska.

She also loves to play softball.

Janelle Schoenleber, Metro East Lutheran: The senior outfielder was a four-year varsity starter. She was a steady player at the plate and in the field. Her outstanding play helped her garner first-team all-overland Trail Conference honors.

"I did a little bit of bunting. I was a contact hitter and drove in runs," Schoenleber said. "I did a pretty good job in the field."

After pitching most of Lebanon's games this season, Bohnenstiehl has continued to pile up innings for the Patriots.

"I pitched in six of our eight games (at nationals)," she said. "One of our pitchers swung the bat and hit her thumb, so she can't throw as much. (Gibault graduate) Katie DeBons threw for us, too. She started two games where I came in to relieve and I started four other games. It doesn't matter if I start or relieve as long as we win."

Bohnenstiehl leaves for college on Aug. 19 and moves into her dormitory on Aug. 20. Soon after her arrival, the Southern Mississippi softball team will prepare for an abbreviated fall season.

"We go to Illinois and Missouri the first week of September," Bohnenstiehl said. "We have a doubleheader at SEMO (Southeast Missouri State University) and a doubleheader at Mizzou (the University of Missouri). We also go to Moline for the NIC Tournament. We'll be playing Illinois State with (Belleville graduate) Bridget (Fournie) and Drake with East graduates Natalie (Bennett) and Amy Crook."

"The fall season lasts only a few weeks with 15 or 20 games. It's pretty much so (coaches) can learn everyone's game and how we can play. In the spring season, we have a tournament every weekend."

said Dana Wallace. "He's also a great promotional force for NASCAR, and auto racing in general. It's nice that he remembers where he's from, and comes back here to race."

Wallace has been following Schrader — another local driver, Rusty Wallace — for a long time.

"I've been a fan of his since he drove those midgets and sprint cars, here and around the country."

"What I like about him is that he never gives up. I don't care what place he's in, he just keeps charging along."

Wallace is in the process of building a scale model of one of Schrader's first rides.

"One of these minis," said Wallace, pointing to his shirt, which had two midget cars and Schrader's large, legible autograph. "I'm going to send it to him and ask him to sign it. I would never sell it, though. These people who get autographs or memorabilia just to sell aren't real fans."

"I'll tell you the reason a lot of people like him," said another fan. "He's one of the only Winston Cup drivers who comes back and races at the dirt tracks. He'll come back and race these short tracks, and he doesn't affect his schedule. He could be making excuses to stay away, but he doesn't. The fans really appreciate a guy like that."

Starting in 1978, Schrader could be found racing his late model sprint and midget on the Granite City oval every Saturday night. His area roots go back farther than that.

"I raced with his dad at Valley Park years ago," said John Prior. "I knew Kenny before he started racing."

"He was totally into racing since he was a little kid. I don't think he ever thought about anything else. He was raised half a mile from the speedway in Valley Park. His dad ran a garage there."

"He's virtually been a pro since he started. I remember one of his first races was at Springfield."

"He presents himself well, speaks well, makes friends very easily. I don't know anyone who doesn't like him."

Schrader's niece, Nancy Wilson, still lives in the area, and she knows how Schrader feels about racing here.

"He lives in North Carolina, but he still has family here, and he loves to spend time in the area," she said. "He races at Pevely, and he raced at St. Charles recently. He loves to run on the dirt tracks."

tonight, considering the weather we got earlier."

A fast-moving thunderstorm washed over the speedway in mid-afternoon but track officials rebounded swiftly and turned the half-mile dirt into a lightning-fast race track. So fast, in fact, that Missouri's Ed Dixon won the Busch Pole Award with a 21.106 second lap in time trials.

Findling stalked early race leader Steve Ihm and Dixon for the first 11 laps. On lap No. 12, Findling blew past Ihm in turn one with Dixon hot on his heels. Dixon looked to be closing on Findling until Ihm crashed in turn three, bringing out a caution flag. When the race resumed, Findling left Dixon behind, stretching his lead to 20 lengths. Dixon's mount overheated and he retired from the race on lap 30. From then on, it was all Findling. Chasing him across the stripe were Bob Dominicki, Steve Kosiski, Brian Birkhofer and Gary Webb.

Former St. Louisan and Winston Cup star Ken Schrader wound up in seventh.

The Con Agra qualifying heats went to Steve Kosiski and Findling.

Terry McClintock won his seventh Budweiser Pro Stock feature of the season, topping Pat Ryan and Tom Seets. McClintock entered the event 18 points ahead of Ryan in the championship points battle. Despite the fact both won a qualifying heat Wednesday, Ryan fell to a 20-point deficit with his second-place showing.

Game Face becomes national player in sports apparel

silk-screen shop six years ago. Brooks, an ex-Marine and a former minor league baseball player in the Houston Astros system from 1986-87, has lived in this area for 4½ years.

The focal point of the company's success is its logo: a tough, intense, no-nonsense face designed by 19-year-old Colorado Rockies and current Los Angeles Dodgers player Trenidad Hubbard.

"Myself and Carolyn didn't know each other, but Trent (Hubbard), who was my roommate in the minor leagues, drew the Game Face logo on a 'barf bag' on an airplane," Brooks said.

Hubbard sent the Game Face logo to Brooks in August 1995. Brooks took it to Distler, who embroidered the logo on a baseball cap for Hubbard.

"Trent (Hubbard) wore the hat in the Rockies' clubhouse and they thought it was pretty cool," Brooks said. "Some of them started wearing it."

"The Rockies were in the playoffs that year and we made 50 Game Face T-shirts for them with the Rockies' colors. They wore them under their jerseys."

"The first hats we sold were when I was coaching football at East St. Louis. We made 24 hats and sold them in the parking lot."

By this point, Brooks and Distler were beginning to realize the potential of the Game Face logo.

"That's when the three of us (Brooks, Distler and Hubbard) decided to form a company," Distler said. "In February of '96, we went to the Supershow (a convention of sporting goods manufacturers) in Atlanta, and were absolutely clueless. But we went down there to get recognition for our product."

"We wore Game Face jackets all week long and people would follow us back to our booth. It was a very successful show for us."

"You have to start somewhere, and we want to align ourselves to compete against the big companies."

Damon Brooks
Game Face co-founder

Brooks, a Cincinnati native, used his baseball connections and started sending Game Face merchandise to Reds shortstop Barry Larkin and other major league players. Game Face also became a Prairie State Games sponsor in 1996 and is the official supplier of PSG shirts and other items.

"That was also the year we went to the Olympics in Atlanta in conjunction with House of Blues Sports," Distler said of the House of Blues restaurant/nightclub chain, which chose Game Face to produce its shirts and other apparel for the '96 Games.

St. Louis Cardinals outfielder Brian Jordan joined the Game Face ownership team in December 1996 and ex-Cardinals pitcher Danny Cox became an investor in March 1997.

"Damon had called Brian several looking for him to be an endorser," Distler said. "He not only wanted to be involved with the company, he wanted to be an investor."

"About that time, Danny Cox saw a Game Face jacket at a game and contacted us. He started talking to us in February '97 and joined us the next month."

Soon after Jordan came aboard, Game Face struck a deal with the Cardinals to produce "Team Fredbird" merchandise, including T-shirts which are flung into the crowd with slingshots by Fredbird's crew, which stands on the dugout between innings of Cardinals games.

"We make over 2,000 shirts a year for the Cardinals, but they're not sold in stores," Distler said of the Team Fredbird shirts, which combine the Cardinals logo with the Game Face name.

"We're the only company allowed to use the birds-on-the-bat logo."

"After that, we became associated with a lot of schools and teams in the area. Early on, we had an association with the Game Face volleyball and soccer clubs, and that's grown dramatically. We're involved not only with Illinois schools, but with schools in St. Louis metropolitan area. They use us for T-shirts and fund-raisers."

In August 1997, Distler and Brooks began to look at ways to take their company to a nationwide level. Game Face's marketing and advertising campaign will include ads in the October and November editions of several national publications.

"We're a growing, small, local St. Louis business, but we're in the process of building national brand awareness," Brooks said.

"This fall, we're going to have our merchandise sold for Jumbo Sports (an 82-store sporting goods chain based in Tampa, Fla.) and Sports Authority is going to start selling Game Face apparel at six stores in the St. Louis area. We're also at Home, J.C. Penney and Hat World and we're in the Anheuser-Busch (summer merchandise) catalog."

Game Face, which had temporary headquarters on Lechman Avenue in Shillito, moved to its current location earlier this year.

"We're getting ready to expand our facilities next door with approximately 7,000 square feet of new space," Distler said. "It will be used for warehouse, distribution, offices and designing facilities."

For more information about Game Face, call 638-2714 or 1-800-213-5194. The company's web site is www.gamefacesports.com.

"You have to start somewhere, and we want to align ourselves to compete against the big companies," Brooks said. "Even if we don't reach the level of Nike, Reebok or Fila, you have a small percentage of the market and do quite well."

"It hasn't surprised us that we've done this well. There are a lot of people, including many from the immediate area, who believed in us and believed in our concept, and they put their money behind that belief."
